all Let It Be a Friend to Every Weman

DOMESTIC HELPS AND

We asked the young lady across the way if she was going to the Panama-Pacific Exposition, and she said she didn't believe she'd care to go as long as the war was on as she understood the canal wasn't especially well fortified.

Mass Meeting and Lectures On Votes-

It was voted to join the Peace Conference of which Miss Jane Addams has been chosen president, and in connection with this the Isague plans to hold a large mass meeting very soon at which Mrs. Pethick Lawrence, of London, England, will the principal speaker.

The league has also planned a lecture course open only to women to be held on Saturday mornings at 11 baste with the water and butter in o'clock in the Sanford homestead on the pan. For-Women Program o'clock in the Sanford homestead on Washington avenue and Coleman street. The first lecture will be held on February 27. Mrs. Edward O. Parker M.D. will' be the speaker.

At the recent executive board meeting of the Bridgeport Equal Franchise league a visiting school committee was appointed composed of Mrs. Samuel T. Davis, chairman, Mrs. William S. Teel and Mrs. Arthur W. Robinson.

The first lecture will be on "The Story of Life and How to Tell it to Children"; the second, on March 6, on "The Double Standard of Morals for Men and Women; A Grave Social Menace;" the third on March 13, on "The Life of Josephine Butler; the Story of a Great Crusade"; the fourth on March 20, on "Social Tygiene, its on March 20, on "Social Tygiene, its Work for Race Betterment," and the last on March 27, on "Connecticut's Need for a Reformatory for Women." Tickets for the lecture may be pro-cured from Mrs. S. T. Davis of 206

Corsage Bouquets For Dances

In cutting, first fold the goods and or a lengthwise fold place the front and back cores of the skirt; then further along lay the collar and back. On a lengthwise thread of the material arrange the sleeve, front and cuff. The alceves may be shortened to elbow langth by cutting off the pattern os small "o" perforations.

First, close under-arm seam of the waist; then close sheulder seam. Turn hem in front at notches. Center-front indicated by large "O" perforations.

Turn under lower edge on slot perforations trunced to describe the saled.

White of egg for an invalid may be mixed with lemon, orange or grape juice.

Loaf pans for bread should be narrow to insure thorough baking of the bread.

Some coffee needs boiling and some does not—one must experiment to find out.

Extra deep pudding pans, pie plates and the like are preferable to shallow ones.

Worn table napkins should be saved to dry lettuce in when preparing the saled.

A glass measuring cup and glass

terial between small "o" perforations in front and back to pass belt through.

Lap right front on left, centers even and tack lower edges together. Sew standing collar to neck edge as notchsquare collar to neck edge naptha soap.

Close sleeve seems of sleeve and cuffs as notched. Sew lower cuff to long sleeve as notched. Sew sleeve in armhole as notobed, easing in any fullness. Join gores of skirt as notched. Form inverted pleat, creasing on alot perforations, bring folded edges together at seam and press. Turn hem at lower edge on small "o" perforations. Lap lower folded edge of front and back on skirt, notches and edges underneath.

Soap and water.

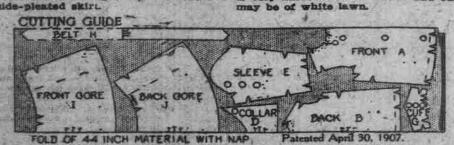

A measuring cup and flour sifter should be kept in the flour barrel to save time.

Uncooked fats, such as butter, cream and clive oil, are more wholesome than cooked.

When boiling meat put a wire teapot standard in the kettle and the meat will not burn.

When pans are scorched, use a stiff skirt, notches and edges underneath even; stitch in tuck effect.

effective trimming for the dress Tub freck of modish design. It feais very narrow braid. Collar and cuffs may be of white lawn. tures the new long-weigted blouse and

Pictorial Review Dress Sizes 6, 8, 10, 12 and 14 years. Price, 15

These Home Dressmaking articles are prepared especially for this newspaper from the very latest styles by The Pictorial

TODAY'S POEM

TO A DEAD COMRADE

Ah, not that face! You were our Too close to be so silent now;

The love, the laughter, at an end In austere lips and brow. We loved you, but we went our ways, Undreaming in our rash content Taht you were dropping numbered Along the road we went.

We leved you, but we never guessed Your ardors and your shining powers Were aiming for a farther quest

Than any guest of ours. Good night dear comrade! As we Not idle praise nor tears we bring: But see! Our hearts stand round yours heart. Like warriors round a king. Herman Hagedorn, in Collier's.

CORNER FOR COOKS

Ham and Baked Peppers. Cut the tops from the peppers so they make caps that can be fastened careless as not to afford ink? on again. Remove every seed and place the peppers in fresh cold wakeep the peppers in the fresh water the milder they will be. Fill with a forcement made from forcement made from meat and ce. Ham and rice is especially good, and chicken and rice, well seasoned, is also relished. Mushrooms may be added to the filling. Put the caps on the stuffed peppers and set them in a pan in the oven. Pour a little hot water around them so they will not burn on the bottom, and brush well with butter. As they bake Vegetable Compote. Chop vegetables left from a boiled dinner, such as cabbage, paranips or potatoes. Sprinkle with pepper. Then place a frying pan over the fire with a piece of butter the size of a hickory nut in it, and when the butter begins to melt tip the pan in order to oil the bottom. Add the vegetables and one or two spoonfuls of hot water which has been boiled. Cover quickly to keep in the steam. When heated thoroughly take off cover, stirring contents occasionally until well cooked. Serve hot.

Potato and Onion Salad. Pare and cut potatoes into thin slices, parboil until done but not mashed. Drain and pour on a shallow dish. Now take centres of boiled onion rings, mash with a fork, add a sifting of salt and pepper, then mix with enough boiled dressing to make , rather thick emulsion. Sift salt and pepper over the potatoes, then cover with the dressing and let it stand for an hour to ripen. This is a nice luncheon dish and can be served with rings of hard boiled eggs, curled bacon or boiled ham.

HOUSEHOLD NOTES

Always boil new ironware before A waste basket in every room is a Medicine stains can almost always e dissolved by alcohol. Use paper bags for covering pitch ers with food in them.

A milk bottle opener is a hand; thing to have in the kitchen. Grown-ups' stockings will make excellent tights for little girls.

Chocolate stains can be removed y washing in soap and tepid water When breakfast muffins are left wer, split and toast them for lunch. Water the fern dish at might in the bathtub and leave it there to drain brings me home from church once in a is the most valuable of a husband's Always have the food served to a sick person spotlessly clean and fresh. White of egg for an invalid may

A glass measuring cup and glass lemon squeezer should be found in To remove tar stains apply kerosene, then wash with warm water and Milk and cream stains should be perforations in front, large "O" perfo- washed out in cold water, followed by soap and water.

Uncooked fats, such as butter, the work beautifully and duickly.

pot standard in the kettle and the polish will be the result when finished. When pans are scorched, use a stiff the bottom. If you use cleaning powder saucepans, be sure to wash out the pan afterwards with cold water. The good housekeeper should over her supplies every day. By this means she can avoid food spoiling. When you mean to mash potatoes cut them in slices before boiling and they will be done muck sooner.

remain a few days before wearing To have delivious mince meat use the following idea: To a gallon crock of mince meat add a pint of preserved

Before wearing your rubbers rub them well with reline. Let them bananas put through a potato ricer,

Laura Jean Libby's Daily Talks on Heart Topics

Copyrighted, 1918, McClure Newspaper Syndicate have been going to see is sick and always sees me home. He stayed the other night until about 10:30; he acted believe he wants me to ask him to come back. Do you? Can I get him Please tell me what to do. I really love him. Can't give him up.

While out of work, your lover may antly, as he once did. Do not lose faith in him Remember him with

'He said when first he saw me

Each night he dreamed of angels And every face was mine;

Sometimes a voice in sleeping Would all his hopes forbid;

And then he'd waken, weeping-Do you really think he did?"

When a man falls in love with a girl ufficiently to wed her, the thought of noney does not enter into his consideration. After marriage he loves her more devotedly than before. If chil-dren bless the union, he is indeed a happy man. If offspring is denied, a wise man looks at it philosophically.

Life flows contentedly onward with the pair. A man may be a very good husband and yet forget the first duty he owes to the woman who has chosen him from all others is to make good his vow at the altar-namely, to en-dow her with an equal half of his so covetous as to take over his bus-iness and attempt to run it. She is What wife would think of asking

Many a man's fortune is based or statement of her husband in regard to his business at the end of each year some inexpensive gift.

HOW MUCH IS

SAD-HEARTED G. K. N.

A WIFE WORTH?

like nothing had happened. When left he never asked to call again.

Miss Libbey's replies to your | who is very dear to him and whom ! letters. Correct name and address must be given to insure attention, not to print. Use ink. Write short letters, on one side of paper only. Address back? I think he loves me. He is out back? I think he loves me. He is out of work. Maybe he don't want to come on account of the holidays. Brooklyn, N. Y.

SHE WROTE WITH

feel, as many young men do, too poor company to pass the evenings pleas-A LEAD PENCIL

Dear Miss Libbey: I visited a town two months ago. While there I became acquainted with very nice appearing young lady. alled on her often while in the place We liked each other very much., proposed on going that we correspond not to forget one another. wrote to her. Was most disheartened when I received her reply, written with a lead pencil. I failed to make out the lead pencil letter after straining my eyes hours. I tore it up. Does not this justify me in breaking off with one so

It was very careless and not pains

WED HAPPILY IF PARENTS APPROVE

I am a girl of eighteen; dearly love a We have been in love for some time. He seems to idolize me in preference to any one else. My parents do not wish me to keep company with him. We have been secretly engaged two years, but we will have to leave home to marry. I have other young men that would like to call, but I do not care he doles out to her for household exfor them. Kindly advise.

M. L. B. You wish to wed and be happy, as all girls do. There is but one way to his business at the end of each year? advise you. That is to have a good heart-to-heart talk with your parents. All is well been nothing to fear. But if there's trouble in the matring-Gain their consent and marry. You will never regret this step. Do not leave home to marry and probably be parsimonious toward his better half, she has every reason to fear.

CORRESPONDENTS

BREAK OFF

the prudence of a saving wife. She may have eked along on a sum which barely enabled her to keep body and soul together that her spouse might have the more money to put into his

Dear Miss Libbey:

I am writing you for advice; pltase own little mite, which she had earned sive me the very best. I am a girl by sewing during those years of strug-seventeen years old; have been corresponding with a young man for over a year. And he seemed to care for me; between husband and wife, which treated me very nice, Gave me very would cause the parting of their ways, nice presents. He has stopped corre-sponding and I gave him no reason to. worth, no matter how rich her hus-Please tell me what I should do. M.

band may be, will cause many a wife perturbed heart when she hears what Corresponding is not always satisthe law has to say about it. A learned factory at the end. Often the man, after corresponding, tires of the slow not, by law, gain from her husband courtship, if it comes to that, stops, and marries another, regardless of the half of it should rightfully have belonged to her. If the man whom wasting time. Again, correspondence wasting time. Again, correspondence might bring from friendship love and a her, he can see her face the world, future helpmest. You cannot compel broken in spirit, penniless. After this. an answer. Wait patiently,

LOVER OUT OF WORK;

OF WORK; suitor who comes a wooing their daughter? A father who is looking after his child's future should not be called meroenary if he insists that the husband should give the wife a cer-

Dear Miss Libbey: Dear Miss Libbey:

I am a girl of eighteen. I have been prosperous, which may be absolutely keeping company with a young man hers. She would never press the claim for ten or eleven months. I love him if he had business reverses. Love very much. A month or so ago he should caues husbands to provide for stopped calling, giving no reason. He their wives. The faith of a true wife while, never asks to call. Some one possessions. Laura from Libby in the bathroom—it will be a con-venience when washing out small If a magnet is kept are whole natural grains, steamed in any hook that will not be picked up a double boiler for twenty-four hours. by the magnet do not use, because it The housewife can frequently omit will rust.

lump of sugar. When drawn the tea sanitary. will be just as strong.

on the floor where glass has been he reboiled; steam it. Vary the ubroken, all the little particles of glass and-down cut for one straight acre broken, all the that will stick to the cloth.

Instead of rolling the dry bread to looks better.

To mend glass, china, or breakages.

To mend glass, china, or breakages.

When cleaning grates add half a exceedingly strong cement. Articles dozen drops of turpentine to the mended with this may be washed black lead, stir well, and a beautiful

Silk, if burned, gives off a disagreeble smell, similar to that of burnt wire whisk to get the burned food off feathers, whereas cotton or artificial silk are practically odorless.

Do not throw away one bit of the Wash the undesirable parts celery.

boil them with the soup bones. It will give the soup a delicious flavor If the cake rises rapidly in the middie like a pyramid and cracks, it is cooking too quickly. A well-cooked cake should be flat on top when done. When ironing delicate garments put powdered orris root between the folds of the ironing blanket. A delicate percate perfume will permeate the cloth-

Almost all vegetables except beans -should be cooked in as little water as possible; then this water thickened with butter, cream and the tiniest

A delicious dessert is made with amount of flour.

Spenss put through a potato ricer. To waterproof boots melt together and sliced orange and pineapple add-ed. two parts besswax to one part of mut-ton fat. Apply this to the leather at Keep a child's ten-cent washboard night, and in the morning wipe well

If a magnet is kept in the hook and eye box, it will be an easy matter who can blame parents for having a satisfactory understanding with a rich

Those cereals are preferable which to pick up the hooks and eyes, and meat from a meal if she makes good its loss with cheese, nuts, milk or cereals.

Every cellar should have many shelves for the convenience of the housekeeper. There should be one or When making tea, instead of the two hanging shelves. By this means usual spoonful for the pot, add a the cellar may be kept in order and ill be just as strong.

A "spare" plum pudding, cooked and put away, should on no account the floor where glass has been be reboiled; steam it. Vary the up-make crumbs, try putting them through the meat grinder. It does of any kind, common alum, melted in an old spoon over the fire, forms an without fear of their coming apart

> Easten an ordinary three-arm towel rack to the right-hand side of the cewing machine. It will be found con-venient for holding pieces of work close at hand without danger of their slipping behind the machine.

> To make chocolate blanc mange take two teaspoonfuls of cocea in a basin and mix with half pint of boiling milk; etir well. Then mix two tablespoonfuls of cornour with half pint of cold milk, put all in a saucepan, and bring to the boil. Stir well, let boil for half a minute.

When white shoes look gray and shabby, they can be made a pretty brown by applying saffron. Mix six drops of saffron with three tablespoon-fuls of olive oil. Clean shoes well; remove dark spots when possible, and then apply two coats of the mixture with a piece of clean flannel.

Corsage Bouquets Iv r Dances JOHN RECK & SON

Copyright, 1913, by the Bobbs-Merrill Co.

(Continued.)

"Well, Wallingford, I've found out Mann. "We'll finish up the business how you tricked me by sending men at your hotel tonight. to scare me about my patent, and now I want my contract back. If we go to law about this I'll prove swindling on How much'll you take to sell me my patent back?"

you and it'll go hard with you. We have laws here, and a farmers' jury is no friend of city sharpers." "Nor to country ones, either," charged Wallingford, suddenly turning stern. 'There isn't a man able to serve on a jury whom you haven't cheated in a cattle deal, and you have to go outside the state to trade horses. Be- the level, Blackie, why, if I had a copsides that"—and here Wallingford low- per so raw in his work" ered his voice-"besides that, you have a bay horse which is to run tomorrow. Blackie majestically. "Mann. where a and that horse used to be gray with that outfit?" a black star in her forehead and three black fetlocks. There's an X-bar-G mark on her left flank and her name used to be"-"Hush!" begged Frazier. "How much'll you take to sell me my patent back? Let's talk this over like sensible business men!"

* * * * * * The sensation of getaway day at the Higgle county fair was the remarkable race made by a bay mare named Little Wonder. Immediately after that race Mr. Frazier slipped the nice little animal out of the grounds for a coo!ing off and replaced her by the real Little Wender, a failure which had never been any nearer the winning horse than the next stall. After that Mr. Frazier happily and virtuously made a tour of collection, in the course of which he annexed most of the loose money in Higgle county. On his way back from this interesting and agree able occupation he stopped at Blackie Daw's place of business and watched that abused gentleman preaching bravery of finance to a slender group which had no wealth and no ambition.

"I'd bet you a hundred on the ace of hearts, but I have too much money, and, besides, I'm in a burry," he banabout here? Small man with a brown face.

Blackie, with a violent effort, constrained himself to be polite and help-

"The manufacturer?" he replied "Yes, Mr. Frazier, Mr. Carson is up by the agricultural building dickering for a windmill. He wants to blow his money. You're quite welcome, Mr. Frazier. Don't mention it." And, as Frazier walked away with a swagger. Blackie, who could not enjoy his return to the scenes of his youth with any pleasure because of this one man. grimly produced a set of dominos and offered to play anybody for a quarter to soothe and relieve his mind.

Mr. Carson was just completing his purchase of a windmill and was arranging for the payment of the money when Frazier found him and drew him to one side.

"Well, I'll have that patent cut loose for you in half an hour." he promised. "Good!" exclaimed the eminent man ufacturer in keen delight. "Well, your money's ready any minute. Do you need any to complete the deal?"

"Not a cent!" exulted Frazier. cleaned up the spot cash money on today's race to make up enough with what I had. I wanted to see you before I did Wallingford to make sure there wouldn't be any hitch."

"Give you your check the minute I get the patent," promised the famous manufacturer.

"All right," hastily agreed Mr. Frazier. "You give me the check when I turn over Mr. Wallingford's contract ident, reported sunk, arrived at San and my patent assignment, Mr. Car- Juan, P. R. I know you want the Frazier handle all right. You'll be glad to get it for seventy-five thousand."

"All right," again assented Frazier. and hurried away to give all the mouey in Higgle county to J. Rufus Wallingford.

"I'll be real pleased," smiled Heodoe

Two hours later, in Wallingford's room at the hotel, J. Rufus produced William Harrison Frazier's financial anatomy and held a postmortem on it. "Forty thousand bucks," he announced, counting it on the bed. "Deducting

$1,000 I paid Frazier for his patent and $5,000 I gave Mann to pay Brazier and $1,000 I split up with the absble boys for help and information, that leaves $33.(=) to the merry-and out of a jay tank town at that! Ten per cent makes $8,300, and not a bad little rakeoff for your outfit, Mann, added to whatever you knocked down out of the $5,000 I gave you to string our lollop."

Hoodoo Mann accepted the money soberly, but he did not tuck it into the flat canvas packet inside his shirt. Instead, he folded it up and shoved it into his trousers pocket.

"I only held out $500 on you, Wallingford," he gloomily stated. "But it didn't do me any good. Some dip got to it, and I think it was one of my own men-the ple faced gun that tried to glom Frazier's change the time you stopped him. I mever seem to have any luck. "Well, hold out on him," chuckled Wallingford, dividing the remainder of the money into two piles and tossing Blackie his share. "Wait a minute, Jim. You're shy $250," Blackie objected. "What for?" puzzled Wallingford.

"Your half of the come on coin I lost to Frazier at monte.

"Pm astonished!" chided Wallingford. "How much besides did you lose at the game you thought you could still play? Give me the total, and I'll help you out on the rest of it." "Wallingford's right, Blackle," said Mann, with a grin at J. Rufus. "For a boy once supposed to have been the best card tosser on the circuit you certainly did put up the rankest job 1 ever saw for this Frazier person. On

"That'll be about all," announced

"Never mind, Blackle," chuckled Wallingford, "I'll take it all back, Here's your $250."

"Keep it!" stormed Blackie. "I want mine from Dog Face Frazier. Mas be any money left?" "About two thousand, I think," laughed Wallingford.

"It's mine," announced Blackie, and he would not be pacified until he burried back to the fair grounds with the three card layout. Wallingford made a careful study of the town in the meantime and decided that it was not worth the exercise of his business talents. He returned in time for their train and found Blackie and Mann together in deep silence. "We'll have to hustle," he remonstrated as he jumped into the packing.

Our train leaves at 8, and we don't want to miss it, for Mann would have to see Frazier shortly after that." Blackie blew a thick ring of cigarette smoke at the celling and surveyed his long legs admiringly as they aprawled before him under the legs of the little folding card table. 'Frazier won't bother anybody tonight." he promised. "He's pinched."

"For running in that ringer this afternoon?" inquired Wallingford. tered. "Have you seen Mr. Carson knew it would get him. Crooked work always does."

"No, for making a holler," replied Blackie, deeply content. "I charged him $2,080 and his watch and chain and this diamond ring for bad guesses on the ace of hearts; then he called ma a swindler and tried to fight, so I had to collect a souvenir from him and turn him over to a deputy constable for disturbing the peace. Here's the souvenir," and he greefully exhibited seven long, glossy red whiskers. Wallingford laughed heartily, but, save for Blackie's superior smile, he laughed alone.

"What's the trouble with you, Mann?" he wanted to know. "Why don't you join the festivities? Or have you heard the joke before?"

"I got a thirty-third degree grouch on," confessed Mann. "Say, Wallingford, could you lend me a couple of hundred?" "Could I what?" demanded Wallingford, looking about him. The little folding table still stood neatly in from of the peacefully smiling Blackie. On the floor lay the ace of spades. On the table, face up. was the ace of diamonds. By its side, with a slightle bent corner, was a card, face down. Wallingford picked it up. It was the ace of hearts! "You boob," he charged

Mann. "I'm hoodooed!" complained that luckless individual.

(To Be Continued.)

The Hamburg-American liner Prace-

Corsage Bouquets For Dances JOHN RECK & SON